U.S. Betrayal of Nationalist China — Or How We Lost 400,000,000 Allies

HOW WE SOLD OUT CHINA

PHILIP JAFFE — Zionist Jew and communist, arrested in 1945 during the infamous "AMERASIA" scandal that rocked Congress and the nation. Jaffe was top director of "AMERASIA", a monthly magazine published in New York for the Institute of Pacific Relations which worked feverishly for the communization of China. The FBI found "AMERASIA" a front for a fantastic spy ring which had stolen over 1700 secret documents from our State Department.

MICHAEL J. LEE — (Ephraim Ziboyi Liberman) Russian-born Jew. When Chiang Kai-shek was desperately striving to avert a complete red takeover of war-torn China, Lee was top director in the far Eastern branch of the U.S. Commerce Department. He supervised shipments of millions of dollars of food and war supplies to Nationalist China most of which were deliberately delayed and never reached Chiang Kai-shek until it was too late to save China.

KLAUS FUCHS — Zionist Jew, co-director of the Fuchs-Harry Gold atomic spy ring, arrested in 1949 by British Intelligence for passing atomic secrets to the Soviets. He was convicted and sent to prison. Since his release from prison Fuchs has defected to Red China rendering invaluable espionage assistance without which China could never have completed her A-bomb.

ANDREW ROTH — A Brooklyn Zionist Jew, who received a lieutenant's commission in U.S. Naval Intelligence, key figure in the "AMERASIA" case, who aided directly in the theft of secret State Department documents.

MARK GAYN (Julius Ginsberg) a writer, born in Manchuria of Russian-Jewish parents, was arrested along with Roth and Jaffe in the "AMERASIA" case.

HARRY DEXTER WHITE — Zionist Jew named Weiss, Former Assistant Secretary of Treasury, whose Soviet espionage activities are well-known, found guilty of freely cooperating with Soviet agents in the "AMERASIA" case and China betrayal. Along with another Marxist, Henry Morgenthau Jr., then Secretary of the Treasury, White plotted and directed the treasonous turning over of our money plates to the Soviet Union.

In the St. Louis Post-Dispatch of June 10, 1966 Staff Writer Donald Grant announced that a citizens' committee on Communist China, to be known as the National Committee on United States-China Relations, is being formed to explore the possibility of bringing representatives of communist China to the United Nations. Included among the founders are Arthur Goldberg, Ambassador to the United Nations; David Rockefeller, Chase-Manhattan Bank; Robert Scalapino, University of California; Doak Bennett, Columbia University; Benjamin Battenweiser, Kuhn Loeb and Company, Bankers; Jack Gomperts, former President, World Trade Association; David Hunter, National Council of Churches; Carl Stover, National Institute of Public Affairs; Eustace Seligman, former law partner of the late Secretary of State, John Dulles; and Cecil Thomas, American Friends Service Committee.

This group will be an extension of a publishing venture announced earlier this year by the infamous Council on Foreign Relations. A whole series of studies on China is to be financed by the Ford Foundation.

Mme. Chiang Kai-shek, wife of the head of the Nationalist Chinese government on Formosa, is making strenuous efforts to counter the movement.

Although the sponsors of this insidious group deny any formal connection with the Federal Government, the project has been thoroughly discussed with State Department officials and other government officers. High officials of the United Nations have expressed favorable interest.

The new committee aims chiefly to distribute material — including television and tape recordings as well as printed matter — on the Communist-China question on a broad, popular basis rather than to encourage new research. The efforts of both the Council on Foreign Relations and the new group, however, are viewed by diplomats here as part of a movement by the Council to improve relations with Communist China and propagandize the American public to greater acceptance of one-worldism though it be of Communist hue.

The Council believes that by having Communist China in the United Nations, it will expedite the plan to establish a world government and that thereby the terrible conflict in Viet Nam will be terminated.

As to Communist China being a puzzle, the great riddle of Communism is nowhere more encased in mystery and deceit than in the ancient kingdom of mainland China. Regardless of how often one reads history of this modern descendant of an aged culture, there remains a vast total of unknown quantities. Even when China was free and had regular interchange with most of the world, the inscrutable face of China was seldom lighted by universal awareness.

Steeped in the traditions of their own spiritual gods, ruled by war lords and provincial kings, and accustomed to the labors of sheer brawn, this celestial country entered the 20th Century as a potential giant, but rarely a competitor in world trade and industry. Coolies continued to provide the majority of work energy, and political leaders continued to use force and public ignorance as tools to increase their power.

Communism was springing up all over the earth, and found a ready human climate in the Orient. The Marxian and Fabian Socialists took heart in the fact that men like Mao Tse-tung were gathering up stragglers from all over China. Exploring the mystery of modern Communist China is a major undertaking and the National Committee on United States-China Relations will be of no avail.

During the last war, while China was a free republic, she was a valiant ally of the Western world in defense of Japanese aggression. Simultaneously her home-grown Communist enemies were responding to the underground coaching of the Soviet government. Even while the United States, Russia and China were allied in a common cause, the Marxists were exporting revolution to the Far East. Russia's own expansionist plans ran in that direction. Indeed, her expansionist plans still circle the globe.

Even though there was a mighty conflict, Chiang Kai-shek was able to restrain the Communists and hold them at bay. But at the war's termination, a series of covenants and treaties brought an end to free China's near immunity to internal revolt. Communism exploited the traditional pattern of the agriculturist and his land. They organized ragged bands of rural and urban coolies; they terrorized the countryside, isolating the large cities until, ultimately, Mao Tse-tung was able to overthrow the existing government and force its leadership to flee to Formosa, but primarily because General Marshall, by a stroke of his pen had disarmed twenty-nine of Chiang Kai-shek's divisions. There, on Formosa, Chiang Kai-shek still prevails and directs the Republic of China with the determined purpose of one day returning to the mainland, provided the United States will step out of the way.
